Being an intern is a fun, but demanding responsibility. Please consider the following before committing to this event and show your agreement by checking the box for each statement.

Interns are expected to be a positive role model everywhere (even when singing silly songs, playing games, and doing all activities)

Interns must follow all camp rules and accept leadership from adult leaders.

Interns are held responsible for being mature eyes and ears around the campers and advising the adults of existing or potential problems.

Below, list any opportunities you have had in the past to work with elementary aged kids:

As expected, effective interns enjoy working with younger children. What aspects of working with children do you like the most? (teaching, playing, story-telling, etc.)

Interns are expected to stick with and encourage all of your campers during the camp. The campers are our #1 priority. Share your ideas about what “making the campers a #1 priority” means to you:

We require all of our volunteers to have a personal and growing relationship with Jesus Christ. Please describe briefly your relationship with Him:
